E-waste has emerged as one of the fastest-growing waste streams worldwide. Without proper disposal, electronic gadgets can cause environmental harm. Additionally, the occupational health risks of handling and managing electronic waste are new concerns. To study the level of awareness about electronic waste and its health hazards, our team of 30 volunteers took the initiative on January 24th, 2023. They conducted an awareness campaign on e-waste through group discussions and presentations in the college. The campaign successfully increased awareness about e-waste and its impact on health. They discussed how reducing and recycling are more beneficial than simple disposal. Additionally, the team elaborated on designing products using environmentally friendly raw materials, which can make a positive change in the surrounding environment. Students also created various products from e-waste and presented them as part of the campaign.
