Highlighting Social Impact: Enactus SLC Shines at NAAC Visit
During the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) visit to Shyam Lal College on December 8th and 10th, Enactus SLC, the college's social entrepreneurship and community outreach organization, made a lasting impression with a captivating stall. This collaborative effort, involving 8-10 dedicated students, served as a powerful platform to showcase the society's commitment to social good and its achievements in empowering the community.

The stall resonated with the NAAC officials, who were briefed about Enactus SLC's two ongoing projects: Swarnkriti and Pravojya. These projects epitomize the organization's dedication to tackling social challenges and creating a positive impact.

Swarnkriti and Pravojya were brought to life through dedicated project stalls, allowing the officials to delve deeper into their essence. Samples of the work produced through these initiatives were on display, providing a tangible representation of the project's impact. The enthusiastic Enactus SLC members not only shared the stories behind these projects but also explained the intricate details of the product's manufacturing process, emphasizing the social benefits woven into each step.

This impactful showcase at the NAAC visit served as a testament to Enactus SLC's unwavering dedication to social entrepreneurship and its commitment to creating a lasting positive impact on the community. The organization's collaborative spirit, coupled with the dedication of its members, has demonstrably translated into impactful projects that address real-world issues, leaving a lasting impression on the NAAC officials and, undoubtedly, the wider community
